Bylaws of the Cornell Astronomical Society

Updated on November 15th, 2025

1. Terms

- 1.1. These Bylaws describe the operating procedures for the Cornell Astronomical Society (hereafter, CAS).
- 1.2. CAS operates out of the Fuertes Observatory (hereafter, the Observatory), whose primary observing instrument is the 12-inch Irving Porter Church Memorial Refractor (hereafter, the Telescope) mounted in the center of the Observatory dome.
- 1.3. CAS works with the Cornell Department of Astronomy (hereafter, the Department) to achieve common goals and make use of shared resources.
- 1.4. A CAS Member who holds a key to the Observatory issued to CAS by the Department, or who is considered eligible to hold such a key, is a Keyholder.

2. Membership

2.1. Member Participation

- 2.1.1. The only purposes of distinguishing active from inactive CAS Members or non-Members are voting and running for office. To be eligible to vote or run for office, the Member must have attended at least four CAS events for the majority of the duration of the event within the last 180 days. An Officer will maintain the right to vote and run for office during their term regardless of attendance.
- 2.1.2. If the eligibility of a person present at a voting meeting to vote is in question, it is the responsibility of the Officers to determine if said person is eligible to vote. If at least two Officers agree that the person in question has NOT met the requirements of active membership, then the person in question may not vote on the current proceedings.

2.2. CAS Keyholders

- 2.2.1. A CAS Member wishing to become a CAS Keyholder must first demonstrate their ability to operate the Observatory without damaging it or its equipment, without endangering other users or visitors, and without impairing the use of the Observatory by authorized personnel or its enjoyment by the public. A Member must be in good standing with CAS and the Department to be eligible for a key.
 - 2.2.1.1. A CAS Member wishing to become a CAS Keyholder will demonstrate these abilities in person to a group that must include at least two current Keyholders. The testee must demonstrate that they:
 - 2.2.1.1.1. Can operate the Telescope without assistance or error, and without performing any action that puts the Observatory, the equipment within it, or its operators and visitors at risk.
 - 2.2.1.1.2. Can find an object in the Telescope, making use of proper technique to locate the object efficiently. The testee may choose to accomplish this through the employment of the setting circle or the finderscope. The testee need not be proficient in either of these methods, but should be able to explain the function of at least one.

- 2.2.1.1.3. Can demonstrate safe and proper setup and stowage of the 15” Obsession Dobsonian telescope.
- 2.2.1.1.4. Can demonstrate proper knowledge of laser safety, including safe and proper usage of a laser in combination with a telescope.
- 2.2.1.2. For the entirety of the demonstration, the testee may employ the physical help of the key test administrators at the discretion of the testee, so long as it pertains to the safety of the testee and observatory property. Key test administrators may only act with specific direction from the testee.
- 2.2.1.3. A testee need not be perfect in every demonstration of their abilities; a broad—albeit involved—understanding of everything is sufficient.
- 2.2.1.4. A testee performing dangerous or negligent actions during their demonstration should result in a dissatisfactory evaluation. Actions by the testee that immediately disqualify a key test should include, but not be limited to:
 - 2.2.1.4.1. Negligently allowing the counterweight to rest above the Telescope.
 - 2.2.1.4.2. Failing to cover the objective lens of the Telescope with the lens cap before tarping the Telescope.
 - 2.2.1.4.3. Negligently leaving the Telescope unlocked with no point of contact between the testee and the Telescope.
 - 2.2.1.4.4. Causing unsafe or negligent collision between the Telescope and any part of or item in the dome (mount, ladders, etc).
 - 2.2.1.4.5. Failing to stop the clock drive, loosen the motor belt, or close the dome slit before concluding the demonstration.
 - 2.2.1.4.6. Leaving the mirror of the Obsession uncovered for any portion of the demonstration outside of observation and collimation.
 - 2.2.1.4.7. Failing to tighten the screws that secure the Obsession’s upper tube assembly into place.
 - 2.2.1.4.8. Installing the Obsession’s upper tube assembly in an orientation that would endanger the eyepiece when in use.
 - 2.2.1.4.9. Endangering any person, including themselves, the key test administrators, other CAS Members, visitors, and anyone else subject to their actions.
- 2.2.2. The Department and CAS Advisor are ultimately responsible for issuing keys and defining all rules regarding the privileges of holding a key to the Observatory.
- 2.2.3. Keyholders have full responsibility for keeping track of their key, whether or not they are using it, and meeting all applicable Department restrictions.
- 2.2.4. If the number of eligible keyholders exceeds the number of keys issued by the Department to CAS, Keyholders without assigned keys are permitted to borrow keys from other Keyholders. Keyholders must refuse all other requests for their keys, except for those that represent Department confiscation of the keys.
- 2.2.5. If a Keyholder who is required to return their keys has not done so after two requests, or before leaving the Ithaca area, CAS reserves the right to contact the Department directly and to inform it about the problem.

2.3. Damage, Injury, and Conflict

- 2.3.1. All alleged violations of Cornell Policy by CAS Members will be handled by Cornell or the local law as specified by the Cornell Code of Conduct. During any investigation relating to CAS, the Member(s) in question will be considered on probation. A Member on probation must return any observatory key they possess to the Department or to another eligible Keyholder. If it is determined that the Member did commit the alleged violation, the Member will be subject to expulsion or probation according to a majority vote of the CAS Officers. Otherwise, the Member's probationary status will be removed and all normal privileges will be restored.
- 2.3.2. CAS has been entrusted by the Department with care and proper use of the Observatory; any violations of this trust are a serious offense.
 - 2.3.2.1. In case equipment belonging to the Department is damaged, CAS will work with the Department to determine how best to restore the Observatory and/or its equipment. This may entail damages against the Member.
 - 2.3.2.2. Incidents with or damage to equipment owned by CAS which do not affect the Department will be discussed at a general body. Final judgment rests with the CAS Officers and CAS Advisor; however, other Members may present arguments relevant to the case. Probation and expulsion may be ordered in extreme cases.
 - 2.3.2.3. In either case, Officers should consider amending the constitution, bylaws, or other CAS policies to prevent similar incidents in the future.
- 2.3.3. Irreconcilable Personal Conflicts:
 - 2.3.3.1. If two or more Members have a conflict that escalates until it interferes with the activities of CAS, then the President is responsible for settling the dispute.
 - 2.3.3.1.1. If the President has a conflict of interest regarding the dispute, then the responsibility for resolving it falls to the other Officers.
 - 2.3.3.1.2. If no Officer is fit to resolve the problem, then a general body meeting will be called to settle the issue. Any resolution must receive a majority vote.
